Retrieval Practice

What is Retrieval Practice?

Why is it important?

Practical strategies that can be used in your classroom to consolidate and develop knowledge in lessons and over time.

“Don’t practise until you get it right, practise until you can’t get it wrong”

Session Aims:-

- Develop your understanding of how retrieval practice can be used to consolidate and develop knowledge
- Understand the roles of memory and schemas in learning
- Understand how retrieval practice can support development of both memory and schemas
- Be able to identify a range of approaches to retrieval practice that you can draw upon in your teaching

When: 27 April 2020 @ 4pm - 6pm

Where: Management Suite, Thorpe St Andrew School and Sixth Form

Cost: £50 per person per session
